Not illustrated. 1905 Excerpt: .in the United States which care for infants exclusively. There are probably to-day in the United States facilities for caring for at least 3,500 children, in institutions varying in size from the Hebrew Orphan Asylum in New York, which has accommodations for 1,100 children, to the newly created ones like th- Home for Hebrew Orphans in Philadelphia, which houses about 50. I must apologize for having burdened you with these figures, and yet the subject of the future development of the care of the orphan.child-cannot be adequately con sidered without at least some presentation of the work that has been done in the past. One would probably need to go far and wide to find the individual who could, with any degree of truthfulness, criticize or find fault with the manner in which the Jewish Orphan Asylums in the United States have been conducted. It may with all truth be said that in no form of Jewish philanthropy has more devotion, more time, more thought, more labor, and more love been expended than in the care of our Jewish juvenile wards. I can point, without making any invidious distinction, without in any way reflecting upon other organizations, to this Institution whose Golden Jubilee we are today celebrating. In all these years there has never ben a moment when the wards of your society have not been in safe hands, when ample provision has not been made for their maintenance, when they have not been able to...
